Clause Risk Analysis

Clause 1: ? Caution | Intellectual Property Insecurity

This clause may create an ambiguous risk of intellectual property theft as it allows the affiliate to establish links to Chase's website, potentially enabling unauthorized use of their branding or con

Clause 2: ? Caution | Contract Escalation

The risk level is elevated because Chase may unilaterally add or change rules, operating procedures, and policies applicable to orders received through Affiliate's Links, potentially causing financial

Clause 3: ? High Risk | Unauthorized Activity

The contract allows affiliates to use the program for commercial use only, but it seems to imply that they can apply for credit cards for personal use, which may lead to affiliates exploiting the syst

Clause 4: ? High Risk | Unlimited Liability Cap

The Affiliate's potential maximum loss is capped at the total Commissions paid by Chase, which may be significantly lower than the actual damages incurred, leaving the Affiliate with limited financial

Plain Language Summary

WHAT IS THIS: This is a contract between Chase Bank and individuals or businesses who want to partner with Chase to promote their credit card accounts through a website link.

KEY PARTIES:

- Chase Bank USA, N.A. (Chase)
- The individual or business applying to be an affiliate (Affiliate)

MAIN OBLIGATIONS:

- Affiliate must agree to promote Chase credit card accounts through a link on their website.
- Affiliate must agree not to display content on their website that is against Chase's rules (Restricted Content).
- Chase will review Affiliate's application and may reject it if they find the website's content to be Restricted Content.
- If accepted, Chase will pay Affiliate a fee for each new credit card account opened through Affiliate's website link.

IMPORTANT DATES:

- There is no specific start or end date mentioned in the agreement.
- Affiliate's website link will only be active once their application has been reviewed and accepted by Chase.

MONEY INVOLVED:

- Affiliate will receive a fee for each new credit card account opened through their website link.
- The amount of the fee is not specified in the agreement.

WATCH OUT FOR:

1. Chase's discretion: Chase has the right to accept or reject Affiliate's application without stating a reason.
2. Restricted Content: Affiliate must ensure their website does not display any content that is against Chase's rules (e.g., violent, discriminatory, or obscene).
3. Termination: Chase can terminate the agreement at any time if Affiliate's website contains Restricted Content.

SIMPLE SUMMARY:

This contract outlines the terms between Chase Bank and an individual or business that wants to promote Chase credit card accounts on their website. Affiliates must agree to promote Chase credit cards and ensure their website does not display Restricted Content. If accepted, Chase will pay Affiliate a fee for each new credit card account opened through their website link.
